

Statement	Explanation
Nobody has any right to touch you in a sexual way without your consent	This could include touching a part of your body, kissing you without your permission, pulling at your clothing, showing you photos or videos of a sexual nature.
Giving in (submission) does not equal consent	Reasons that females might submit to sexual activity includes fear.
It is always 100% your responsibility to be sure that your partner is willing before any sexual activity	Afterwards is not the time to find out that your partner did not want any or the same level of sexual interaction. Otherwise you will be turning your potential lover into your victim.
Never make assumptions about your partner's intentions	Don't act without consent or ignore clear messages. The way someone looks at you, the way they are dressed, if they laugh at your jokes, if they respond by kissing you, for example are not acts that equal verbal consent.
No means no	If your sexual partner says it, believe it.
No answer does not mean yes	If someone doesn't say "no," it certainly does not mean, "yes." If either (or both) of you can't or won't talk about sex and the possible consequences for a relationship, then it is much too soon to be sexual together.
Sex with someone unable to consent is rape	Sex with someone drunk, under the influence of drugs, asleep, passed-out, underage or otherwise unable to consent is rape.
Sexual touching without consent is sexual assault	Sexually touching someone when they are drunk, under the influence of drugs, asleep, passed-out, underage or otherwise unable to consent is sexual assault. This includes touching the victim with any part of the offender's body, or anything else and through anything such as clothing.
Someone can change their minds at any point	For example, if they say "stop" or "no" or "that hurts" then you must STOP. There is no "point of no return."
